Without a doubt, it has been the longest and most exhausting day of my life. I can barely keep my eyes open down to write this. Already I fear I'm breaking the rules being up after lights out but I must record this experience before I forget it. My pre-dawn morning began with my checking into MEPS. MEPS is a military evaluation medical clinic where they examine every inch of you, right down to your toenails to make sure that you meet the acceptable requirements before they put their seal of approval on you. It's run a little better than a meatpacking plant. You are one in a line of prospects making hisher way down the assembly line of the US government. For me, my main concern was being able to weigh in within their guidelines. I spent the last month at my recruiters office working out with the Marines there to lose 20 pounds so I could enlist. My time is divided amongst them, either at the gym next door or on some concrete pavement running. I'm...
