Not illustrated. 1830 Excerpt: .tances, by certain attractive and repulsive forces; from whence it arises, that, in the volume of each body, there is much more void space than matter. On this system, the diversities in bodies may be explained, either by an essential difference in the atoms themselves, or by a difference in their form, size, position and distance. When two substances combine chemically, the atoms of one penetrate the interstices of the other, and the atoms of the two combine so intimately, that they become, in a manner, new sorts of constituent particles, excepting that they are not simple, but compound. Dynamometer. Instruments for measuring the relative strength of men, and also of animals, are so called. Dyspepsia (SvTMCpta, from l-s, bad, and Tppis, digestion); difficulty of digestion. The strict etymology of the term implies an imperfect or disordered condition of the function of digestion. Systematic writers have been not a little perplexed to find an appropriate location for this affection in their artificial arrangements; and this difficulty must exist whilst symptoms, which are always fluctuating, are admitted, as the elements of nomenclature and arrangement, into systems of nosology. From the same circumstance, different symptoms of the affection have received the character of separate diseases, as apergia, bradypepsia (/3paius, slow), anorexia, cardialgia, c. These are no more than different grades in the symptoms, or varieties of the affection, and are not different diseases. The disorder of the digestive function is the most frequent and prevailing of the ailments...
